

COSMIC DISCLOSURE: BRIEFINGS WITH A NEW ALLIANCE

Season 10, Episode 7

Posted 04 April, 2018

David Wilcock: Welcome back to "Cosmic Disclosure". I'm your host, David Wilcock. I'm here with Corey Goode. And in this episode, we're going to discuss the fascinating return of the Secret Space Program Alliance [SSP Alliance].

Corey, welcome back.

Corey Goode: Thank you.

David: So let's take it forward then from what you had here in our previous episode. What is the next noteworthy thing that happens to you after this awesome series of visitations that you experienced?

Corey: Typically, after I have an experience like that, I spend days just sitting and staring at the wall trying to process it all.

I was kind of going through that process when I was informed that I was going to have a meeting with Gonzales and the SSP Alliance on the LOC [Lunar Operation Command].

David: Oh!

Corey: And, if you remember, they had been keeping their head pretty low for a while, and they had gone through the trouble to make me feel responsible for the near collapse of the SSP Alliance.

If you remember, Sigmund was picking me up and chemically interrogating me to find out what was going on because he was a part of the MIC Secret Space Program [Military-Industrial Complex SSP] . . .

David: Right.

Corey: . . . and didn't believe any of this other stuff was going on. He just didn't believe it.

David: Yeah.

Corey: And then once he did his investigation, he found out that it WAS real, and he started causing problems, and then he just disappeared off the face of the Earth.

David: So how did it feel when you heard that the SSP Alliance is reforming?

Corey: I was a bit nervous. I didn't know what to expect.
I knew that they were going to want a full briefing of all the different things I'd encountered.

David: Right.

Corey: So I was really still processing those. I wasn't really in a place to give a briefing, but I was going to have to, anyway.

David: So this is right around the time that you had, kind of, moved in to your new place and had been able to settle down.

Was there any relationship between that move and some of the things that started to happen to you at this point?

Corey: Well, very quickly after I moved in, in October, I took my son around and did some "trick or treating" [Halloween evening] to kind of gather a little intel on neighbors.
And the people directly across the street from me, the man and the woman, both, were retired CIA. They were geologists that did some sort of satellite interpretation, you know, for the CIA.

David: Retired CIA.

Corey: Yeah.

David: Right across the street!

Corey: Right. And then . . .

David: That's petty crazy.

Corey: . . . he started telling me, "Yeah, the lady next to you retired from NOAA . . .

David: Right.

Corey: . . . the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration."

David: Yeah.

Corey: "The person over there is retired military. This whole area . . . there are a lot of retired Air Force and intelligence assets."

And that freaked me out. And I brought that up to Gonzales the next time.

And he told me that indeed that was true, and that all around my neighborhood, they had installed all types of very sensitive detection devices that would detect any type of electrical change in the atmosphere – any types of changes.

David: Well, who is "they"?

Corey: Military intelligence. They were trying to figure out what was going on with me.

David: Okay. So does that include trying to catch something happening to you like the Blue Sphere picking you up [Corey nods his head "yes".], or the Darts landing [Darts are small craft used by the SSP Alliance]?

Corey: Or me being teleported out. When that occurs, there's some sort of weird energetic signature that they are able to track with these devices.
Also, if any craft were to come and pick me up, they would be able to gather telemetry on the craft.

David: Well, some of the things that you and I have discussed privately have made me pretty compelled in thinking that the Earth Alliance is now taking you a lot more seriously than they were.

Corey: Yes.

David: And would you agree with that?

Corey: A lot more seriously, but they're very skeptical of anything involved with the Secret Space Program.

David: Do you think, though, that they are starting to feel more compelled based on certain things that they've acquired?

Corey: Yes. And they were also trying to figure out how a guy who was talking about 8'-tall blue bird aliens was also coming out with all of this very accurate intel about what was going on in the MIC Secret Space Program.

David: Do you think, or do you know, if those devices that they've installed have actually hit pay dirt and gotten them something that they find very amazing?

Corey: I don't know, because I was told the day of this meeting I needed to leave my home and drive to a local school and be prepared to be picked up in a football field.

David: Wow!

Corey: And that's exactly what happened. It was around 2:00 am. in the morning. I got dressed, got in my car and left.
And I parked and waited for about 20 minutes beside this school, and sure enough, I saw . . . off in the distance, I saw a flash. And the it flashed again and it stayed on. It was like a white orb up in the sky.
And it was descending very rapidly and then started moving towards me and getting a little bit bigger.
And then as it got probably a quarter mile away, it was like the light popped like a bubble. If you blow a bubble and pop it.

David: Oh, that must have been so cool.

Corey: Yeah, it was very cool. It popped and there was a Dart craft . . .

David: Really!

Corey: . . . that I had ridden in before.

David: About the size of a regular car like you would see?

Corey: Yes. About the size of a . . . a little bit bigger than an SUV.

David: Right. Wow!

Corey: It came and it landed. I had quite a distance to hoof. It wasn't real close to my car. But I'm looking all around, looking for any types of cars or aircraft lying around and it was just dead still.

I sit in and they tell me, "Sit back; buckle up. We're headed to the LOC".

We lift off, and I see the Moon as we're headed towards it. And the Moon looks about like this big [Corey makes a circle shape with his fingers of both hands touching each other.], and then all of a sudden – Whew!

I mean, it grew so quickly, so fast, that it looked like we were going to smash into it.

David: Did you have a feeling of motion?

Corey: Kind of a feeling of motion. I mean, you see the Moon and all of a sudden, the Moon looks like it grows just super fast. "Vrooooo!" And then, all of a sudden, you're like . . . you can't see the circumference of the Moon anymore. You're so close.

They flew back around the back side of the Moon.

And we did two or three flyovers of the crater that the LOC is in, except we couldn't see it.

They had the masking technology activated.

David: Oh, wow!

Corey: So it just looked like a crater. I mean, you couldn't even see the secondary crater, the hole in the bottom of the crater. It was all covered up.

David: Was there anything kind of glitchy about it, or did it look really clean?

Corey: It looked really clean.

David: Wow!

Corey: I was told that it had kind of a mirage effect, but it looked pretty clean to me.

David: Wow!

Corey: And so they were communicating, getting permission to land, and then the masking was turned off and I could see the base.

And I could see green lights, red lights, white lights, some flashing, some stationary.
And we flew around, up and over, and down in this secondary crater hole that's in the middle of this crater that the LOC is in.
And we flew down through it . . .

David: So the crater was just open?

Corey: Yeah. It's just a hole.

David: A chute?

Corey: It's kind of a hole that goes down, almost like a sinkhole, . . .

David: Okay.

Corey: . . . then it opens up into a lava tube cavern.

David: But was there a lunar surface looking underneath it so that if you didn't actually get really close, it would just look like a crater?

Corey: No, it just looked dark.

David: Right. Okay.

Corey: Dark, like a hole. We head into that and immediately, I see the part of the LOC I've seen before, the part that's kind of like a bell shape going down into the rock.

David: There's a cavern around the bell shape?

Corey: Yeah, it's a cavern that the bell shape was built into.

David: Oh!

Corey: Like the middle. It looked like it went all the way through, and then the bell shape was built that kind of blocked it.

David: Interesting. Okay.

Corey: There were two main hangar ports. One was for exiting craft. One is for entering craft.

We entered in. We went and landed in one of the areas to where we disembarked. The pilots immediately went down some stairs, and Gonzales greeted me. He was wearing an Air Force dress uniform.

David: Hm.

Corey: And I looked at him, and I said, "We're back to that old charade, huh?" And he got a look on his face like, "Shut up! Shut up!" You know? So, I kind of . . .

David: Why would the Air Force be a charade?

Corey: Because he was Navy.

David: Oh!

Corey: And he, throughout the Secret Space Program Alliance, he was pretending to be Air Force.

David: Oh, interesting.

Corey: And I had given that information already in intelligence briefings to the public, so I didn't understand why he was wearing the Air Force clothing.

David: Okay. Yeah. Interesting.

Corey: So we met a female that was wearing Air force clothing. She introduced herself to us and said that she was going to be our escort for the remainder of our visit.

David: Now, were these jumpsuits as you've said before?

Corey: No, she was dressed in an Air Force dress uniform.

David: Okay.

Corey: You know, had her hair kind of back and tucked, and tied. And it looked like Air Force dress.

David: Just regular Earth Air Force uniform?

Corey: Um-mm.

David: Okay.

Corey: She takes us immediately into an elevator. And we get in the elevator, and it starts going . . . It goes VERY quickly down. It goes very quickly down. I couldn't count floors or do any type of intel.

David: And then what happens?

Corey: So when the doors open, I knew that I had gone MUCH further down into the LOC than I had EVER been permitted prior, or at least remember. And when the doors opened, I was expecting to see all kinds of magic, and I was immediately disappointed. It was corridors and doors, was all I saw. So . . .

David: Would you have been able to know you were on the Moon if you were just transported there?

Corey: No. No, you would not know the difference. You would not know if you were on Earth. You wouldn't know.

David: Right. Okay.

Corey: So we were guided down a corridor to a room, and she knocked on the door at the same time as opening it. And when she did that, there was a conference table and what looked like a big window behind them. And the conference table was turned this way [Corey indicates the conference table is in front of him with him standing in the middle of a long side of the table.], and the window was this way [The window is opposite Corey on the other side of the conference table.]

And everyone at the table stood up – or almost everyone. Everyone that I could see stood up.

David: So what's in the window?

Corey: The window . . . I see Mars. It looks like we're on Mars.

David: Really?

Corey: And I was kind of perplexed. You know, the people are standing to greet me, and I'm like, "Are we on Mars now?" Because I've heard you give information about some insiders that they would ride an elevator, and then all of a sudden . . .

David: That's right.

Corey: . . . they're on another planet.

David: That's right.

Corey: And I was wondering if that had just happened.

David: Yeah. They called it the corridor, and it was a teleportation device. Yeah.

Corey: Right. So I was a little confused.
And immediately, one of them turned and saw it and changed it to a moonscape.

David: HA! Ha, ha.

Corey: So, basically, from talking with Gonzales, a lot of times, people . . . If you're working on a project, they'll take you through a portal without you knowing, and you'll be on the Moon or Mars.

David: Oh, wow!

Corey: And they can show what looks like a convincing window of somewhere on Earth.

David: Wow!

Corey: So you would think you're on Earth. Or if you're on Earth, and they want you to THINK you've been to Mars, they can do it that way, as well.

David: Very interesting.

Corey: So I immediately looked around, and I recognized everyone there, everyone present. And I look over, and . . .

David: Recognized, meaning what? Like who were they?

Corey: The Secret Space Program Alliance officials that I had met before.

David: Oh! Okay.

Corey: They looked very uneasy. Like meeting Gonzales and I for the first time in this situation made them very uneasy. It wasn't hard to read that.

David: To your knowledge, do these people ever come to Earth, or do they exclusively live in space, off planet?

Corey: Some of them, yeah, they do come to Earth, but most of them have been completely pulled away and segmented from any type of life going on on Earth.

They stood up – which is kind of the military thing to do, you know; when people come in the room, you stand up – and did a greeting with Gonzales and I. And like I said, they were nervous. But as they were starting to sit back down at the end of the table, I saw Sigmund.

David: Oh, really?

Corey: And Gonzales and I were both sort of shocked and perplexed to see him. I sort of blurt out without even thinking.

I was like, “Wow! So this is where you've been?”

And I looked around . . . I glanced around real quick, because everyone was very uncomfortable still, and I said, “I'm kind of surprised to see you here after I told the SSP Alliance that I had the feeling that you were infiltrating.”

And he didn't like that at all. He stood up and started frothing at the mouth.

He went from sitting there with a smirk on his face to standing up doing this [Corey points his right index finger down, up, down, up, repeatedly], saying, “You don't know what all I've lost. I lost everything.”

And then he pointed his finger at me, and he said, “Intuitive empath, my ass!”

David: Hm.

Corey: And then everyone was real quiet.

David: What do you think he meant by, “I've lost everything”? What does that mean?

Corey: Later on, I heard he basically abandoned his family and everything here.

David: Really?

Corey: Yeah. He abandoned everything.

David: To join the SSP Alliance once he found out it was real?

Corey: Yeah.

David: So could you just again, very briefly, tell us: what was his role before and why is this important?

Corey: Yes. He was very high up in the Military-Industrial Complex Secret Space Program. He was being charged to investigate what was going on with me with the leaking of highly-classified information.

David: And so just to clarify, the MIC program doesn't know about the greater program that you were in.

Corey: Right. So I'm coming out with all these interesting tales along with classified information, and they were wanting to figure out what was going on. So he brought me in. They were fairly sure I was a part of a program, and they put me through the paces to figure out if I was telling the truth or not. They did forensic tests on me to see if I had been in the places I said I was. And after finding out that what I was saying was true, or he could verify most of it, he soon broke away and joined the SSP Alliance. And that's pretty much how everyone had joined. They had, at some point, pulled away after they found out more information.

David: So it must have been really shocking for you to see him there, considering that in the past, he didn't even believe that your Secret Space Program existed.

Corey: Right, but he's still a skeptical guy. As the briefing continued, he showed his skepticism. But after his outburst, there was kind of an awkward pause when someone on the opposite side of the table said, "How about we sit down so we can begin?" So we all sat down and then the briefings began.
David: Okay, so what were the briefings?

Corey: They're basically the briefings that I've been giving all of our viewers the last several episodes.

David: Oh! You were briefing them?

Corey: Uh-huh.

David: Really?

Corey: I was getting briefed as well. Gonzales and I were both getting a joint briefing. Most of that is classified still. Gonzales gave his briefing, and a lot of it was classified, but a lot of it also had to do with the different beings that he was working with alongside the Mayans and the work they were doing. I gave my complete briefing, and the moment I brought up the Super Federation and started to give the briefing, and I mentioned Teir-Eir, the Blue Avian, appearing, Sigmund sat back and threw his arms up and scoffed in disbelief.

David: After all that?

Corey: Yeah.

David: So why do you think he still would disbelieve if he's actually discovered the SSP Alliance is real?

Corey: Well, I asked him. I said, "After everything you've seen, now that you've joined the SSP Alliance, you still don't believe?"

And he said, "I've had technology used on me to where I don't know if THIS is real."
He said, "The technology that's out there can make you see whatever it is they want you to see."
He said, "I am fairly certain that the Nordics are screwing with our heads again."

David: Hm.

Corey: And I was about to ask him, "What do you mean, 'again'?", when that same person at the other end of the table called us back to order.

David: Well, given the fact that you were put into, as you've described, virtual reality simulations in the MILAB program when you were a kid that you said were indistinguishable from reality, do you think he has a point? Do you think he could be right?

Corey: He absolutely has a point, because from his perspective, he's been put through a lot of those technologies to a point where he doesn't know what's real half the time from what he was saying.

David: Right. But I would say, from all that you've described, that there are layers of this that make it very clear that it's not just Nordics playing a game on you, that this is actually a real phenomenon with real beings.

Corey: Right. He went on to say, "Listen, I saw the video of the first meeting at the LOC where the Blue Avians and the Golden Triangle-Head being appeared."
And he said, "I saw it, but I don't believe it." He refuses to believe it.

David: Is that a pretty forlorn opinion that most people don't share? Is he kind of in an isolated role by feeling that way?

Corey: Well, all of the people that were there at the LOC meeting, that were there when the Blue Avian appeared, were pretty convinced that it was real as well.
So it was just that he had not . . . He was going from his previous experience.

David: Well, let's talk about this for a second. If he believes, and he has reason to think that the Nordics have enough technology that they could make you see whatever they want, why couldn't they, for example, project a President of the United States and just replace him or do all kinds of weird things to mess with our history?

Corey: There's only so much they're allowed to do, cosmic law-wise. But apparently, Nordic species have been involved with us ever since we've been here.
There are tales of angels, tales of beings appearing during the founding of the United States . . .

David: Right.

Corey: . . . that were described as being Nordic-looking. So they've been here with us all along. I don't understand though, quite yet, what he means by, "They're playing with our heads again."

David: But you were under the impression that most people did not believe him in that room.

Corey: Most of the people didn't agree.

David: Right. So what happens next?

Corey: Basically, I finished up my report to them and then received around a dozen questions, as Gonzales did as well. He received several questions.

And then I was done with my part of the report.

David: So was there anything interesting that was said after you finished your briefing?

Corey: They brought up some of the plans that were in motion to disclose the MIC Secret Space Program.

David: Hm.

Corey: And one of these had to do with a conflict with North Korea – how they would bring to bear space-based weaponry and exotic aircraft.

David: Now, just so that we're clear, what is the fully-awakened view of North Korea in terms of who is really responsible for what they're doing and what is the agenda?

Corey: That's a huge conversation in its own, but basically we can say it's a Cabal puppet state.

David: Okay. So why then are they trying to nuke the U.S. or threatening to nuke the U.S.?

Corey: They always need a bad guy, the Cabal, to leverage against us. In this case, the Alliance is leading the military, the Military-Industrial Complex, SSP, as well. Most of it is now under Alliance control – Earth Alliance.

And they want to disclose this program from a place of strength. So they feel that if they use the weapons that they've been developing for decades on North Korea, that it will send a message to the rest of the world while at the same time releasing advanced technology to the public.

David: So they would actually intend for this to be filmed and seen and talked about on headlines all over the world?

Corey: Right. Just like when war broke out . . . I believe it was with Iraq when the Stealth Fighter and Bomber came out of secrecy.

David: Just because this has been so controversial on the Internet, I want to ask you this: What could the Cabal do to a country like North Korea to get them to poke their finger in the eye of the big bully on what would appear to be like a suicide mission?

In other words, they don't really have hardly anything, but they're acting as if they're going to drop a nuke anyway.

How severe is this military threat that we would pose to them? Are we going to wipe out their entire country and turn it into glass? I mean, what is the scope of the attack, because a lot of people are really worried about this?

Corey: Right. Well, the scope of the attack, from what I've heard, is that we recently – SpaceX – launched a DoD [Department of Defense] device that is a sustained EMP [electromagnetic pulse device].

They're going to use that over North Korea, hit it with an EMP, and then begin to drop some of the Rods from God – large, long, about telephone-sized tungsten beams that are coated in ceramic.

David: Okay.

Corey: It is planned that they'll be dropped, and that then TR-3B-type craft will then come in and do surgical sorties.

And they're going to try to take . . . not damage the infrastructure – what there is of infrastructure. They're trying to go for low casualties.

David: Okay. So those tungsten rods that you just mentioned, are they like bunker busters? Are they able to get deep, underground military bases taken out?

Corey: Absolutely.

David: How could somebody convince Kim Jong-un to be doing this? I mean, the guy . . . He's obviously not going to live through this.

How could the Cabal actually make this country pick such a huge fight that it knows it can't win?

Corey: Well, we're not talking about a country. We're talking about one insane leader who they are able to manipulate.

David: So there might be blackmail involved or bribery or some other type of threat-coercion factor.

Corey: Right. In the course of this discussion, they brought up the Tom DeLonge effort of bringing out advanced technologies and in disclosure.

David: Right.

Corey: And they've stated that he was working in tandem with the Air Force part of the MIC SSP, which is also the DIA, the Defense Intelligence Agency.

And as they started talking more about THAT program, and how they were doing it independently of ufology – they did not want to work with anyone in ufology – and I was curious about that, obviously, and they basically stated that ufology had been so infiltrated by Illuminati cults, by egotistical narcissists that really just are there to talk about their material and create UFO-type religions. It's a mess.

And they say that if they want the, I guess, the rest of society to take this information seriously, they felt like it had to be done completely separate from what was going on in the ufology realms, which is disappointing.

David: Yeah. I mean, that's kind of like fighting words. It's you putting your gun on the table when you say that, really.

So how can we marginalize this whole community like that? That doesn't seem really fair to say.

Corey: Well, it's not fair, but they do have their points. There are a lot of problems in this community.

But if we want to be a part of it, we're going to have to make a stand and just be a part of it by default.

David: Has there been a psychological profile of why they think people in our community are so ill-equipped to handle a genuine briefing or genuine disclosure?

Corey: Well, part of the problem is that the Military-Industrial Complex has been screwing with ufology for decades, feeding in misinformation, sending in operatives to cause fighting and infighting, sending in people with different narratives.

I mean, some of the Illuminati-type cults have been coming in with their religious narratives trying to cause us to adopt them, to make it to prime us for some day when they come up, they show us what's going on in Antarctica and claim to be divine right rulers, that we will agree.

David: So I just want to get a little bit more direct in how I ask this of you.

Are you saying that there are certain people who would be recognizable figures in the UFO community who are actually working on a secret payroll and are having kind of a double-agent role in what they're doing?

Corey: There have been instances of that since ufology began, absolutely.

David: Hm. So how would our audience know who to trust in light of that information? How should the person hearing this respond if they're told that our entire community is in such a state of disarray right now?

Corey: Well, I guess we just need to begin to hold our UFO belief systems – we all have them – at arm's length and start to focus on getting Disclosure.

None of us really know the real truth, but we all want it. So if we all focus on what we're desiring as opposed to what we've created in our minds over the years, then we'll find a way to work together.

Otherwise, we are just at each other's throats. My information doesn't match your information, therefore you must be the Devil. And it's just a big mess.

But at the same time, there are a lot of really great people in the community, that if they come together, they will be able to be a MAJOR part of Disclosure.

David: So were there any other topics that you discussed at this meeting besides what we've already mentioned?

Corey: Actually, Sigmund kind of dropped a couple of bombs real quick.

David: Ha, ha.

Corey: He told us that we were going to get a very exclusive tour of the Lunar Operation Command, which definitely got my attention. And then, . . .

David: You said before you only got to see the top, right?

Corey: Right. I was already further down in the LOC than I'd ever been.

David: Wow!

Corey: And what's interesting is he said that the tour would begin at LOC Bravo. Now, one of the things that I've kind of kept to myself, and it's so you can tell who is real when they come forward, is that there are three LOCs.

David: Right.

Corey: There's LOC Alpha, which is the one that I've always talked about, LOC Bravo, and LOC Charlie. And by the end of this trip, I get to visit all three.

David: Well, Corey, I hate to say this, but we are out of time for this episode. This is "Cosmic Disclosure". I'm your host, David Wilcock, here with Corey Goode. Thanks for watching.
